

Jack & Jill

By Matt Sandler, 9th Grade, Mesivta Beis Dovid of Cherry Hill

There is a game, to keep the name, of a childless man.
The wife gets betrothed to the husband's brother, but only if she can.
But you will learn, that it's your turn, to see whom you can too,
There are many women, to whom there is an omen, to see if you can't to.

Jack and Jill had a tzara named Lil, who was his brother's daughter.
But Jack fell down and broke his crown, Now Jill can't fall to his brother.
Why did Jack marry his brother's daughter, how'd he get the nerve a?
It's too late – it is her fate, now she's a tzaras ervah.

Now let's say Lil falls to Phil, who is Jack's other brother.
He had a wife, then lost his life, now that wife can't fall to another.
It sounds like a Nes, but we found a case, in the Yevamo Gemara,
She isn't related – yet still can't be mated, and this is a tzaras tzara.

If a young'un finds, she's in a bind, and she's not having fun.
She doesn't have to fret, or get a get, she just has to get Miyun,
But a miyun only works, if the dad is dead and done,
They instituted a law, and fixed up a flaw, so the girl does not have to run.

Let's say a man, got married to someone, who couldn't bear to bare,
But they did marry and she will miscarry, the husband can say it's not fair.
She cannot give birth, anywhere on Earth, and she 20 years of age,
It isn't tough to think she's an Aylanus, and that's the Gemara's first page.
